SCANIA

FREEDOM

The product

In today's challenging times it's often difficult to manage your cash flow. Customers go bankrupt or pay later, suppliers try to reduce credit terms or you lose a contract. All of these can have a temporary adverse effect on your cash flow and put your business under pressure. The ability to flex some of your existing commitments and take a payment holiday can help you recover. Scania Freedom is designed to help you do just that. By giving us just 14 days' notice you can take a break from your regular monthly payments giving you the opportunity to reduce outgoings, helping you manage your cash flow.

How it works

Scania Freedom allows you to take a payment holiday each year of your hire purchase agreement, for up to 5 years. Each payment break can be for either one or two consecutive months. So you could take up to 10 months' payment holidays during your agreement or none at all, whichever suits you. A fee is only charged when a payment holiday is requested, offering flexibility and peace of mind. All you need to do is give us 14 days' notice before your normal monthly payment.

What's next

If you take any payment holidays you have the choice of keeping payments the same, adding them to the end of the contract, or keeping the term the same by increasing your monthly payments to cover those missed.
