PRODUCT INFORMATION

At Scania, we develop all our products with the same care, responsibility and quality. Great solutions come from brilliant ideas, comprehensive knowledge, thorough planning, unique design and ingenious engineering. Then we continuously improve upon what we've made, always with the customer in mind.

LIVING THE SCANIA BRAND

We show the same care in choosing the buttons for a shirt or leather for a watch strap as we do when refining a nut or bolt to gain a couple of decimals in fuel efficiency. Because "genuine Scania" means nothing less than perfection.

We work hard to find partners who share our focus on quality, responsible production and the use of environmentally-sound materials. And like us, our suppliers pay the utmost attention to detail. This approach has helped us to tailor our products to your needs for more than a century. As always, we will continue this journey accompanied by dedicated drivers, owners and co-workers, plus everyone who loves the Scania brand as much as we do.

Our long-term goal is to contribute to a circular consumption process, where timeless products are used for a long time, and then, when no longer used, the material becomes something new. This way, we make it easier for you to make a better choice. We always try to choose the best possible solution available to reduce our environmental impact, but we are humble about the fact that we can always keep improving.

In this year's Collection you'll read about how we develop our merchandise to create the genuine Scania feeling and pay an extra tribute to the V8 on its 50th anniversary!

Welcome to the Scania Collection 2019.

The making of a BRAND

Inspired by the company's vehicles and values, Scania merchandise is creating a true sense of identity for the Scania brand. Here, several key players in the development process talk about their work, including the special V8 50th anniversary collection.

“We often work with small details. In this 2019 collection, we have been inspired by the V8.”

Scania Truck Gear

Attention to detail

Product Manager Susanna Hansson shows off one of the new Griffin Tech jackets, which in the quilted lining features a pattern inspired by the truck grille.

Scania’s merchandise has to meet the same level of quality as the company’s trucks and buses. After all, it gives the company a positive image, bearing the logo and product details that Scania fans have come to associate with their beloved brand. A crucial part of the company’s brand identity, it helps to create a visual sense of what it means to be part of the Scania family. It also provides Scania fans with the designs and logos that they’ve come to expect from Scania.

One of the key aspects to the integration and authenticity of Scania product design is that all the company’s designers work in the same department. So, it does not matter if you are a designer of a new truck, a t-shirt or anything else – everyone can have a say in the process of developing the products that the customer needs. “We work closely together in an agile process with continuous reconciliations. We give and take ideas and inspire each other,” says Xavier Carreras Castro, Team Leader Exterior-Interior Design.

Fredrik Rudenstam, Team Leader Visual and Graphic Design, adds that there is a well-defined design process.

“We start with the brand, the logotype and the graphic identity. We have a proud heritage and values that we have stood for over many years, and that is fantastic for designers like me to work with. We also have an exciting future with the release of new vehicles and that must also be reflected in what we design. For example, in → the new V8-inspired collection there are watches with features from the new trucks, and a sweater with the 1969 logo that celebrates the V8's history."

To create successful products requires an exceptional attention to detail. The new jacket has a particular feature that shows the amount of thought that goes into the design process.

Susanna Hansson, Product Manager, Scania Truck Gear, points out a special pattern in the jacket's lining.

"The pattern is inspired by the truck grille," she says. "We often work with small details like this. In this 2019 collection, we have been inspired by the V8."

Indeed, the exact same pattern can be seen on the grille on the truck itself, and, says Cantos, this is exactly how the designers work. "We look at the brand and the details in the truck, both external and internal, and translate these into a feature in branded merchandise."

Of course, giving the customers what they want is also vital. To find out what they are looking for, the designers spend time together with drivers in the truck to get the right feeling and inspiration. They also meet with drivers and visit trade fairs.

Fredrik Rudenstam used to be a truck driver, so he can quite easily picture what a driver likes.

"Everything we do is based on user insights, what the customer needs and wants," he says. "It is essential to know the target group, and we are very much engaged in the user experience."

A key consideration in all the products' design processes is whether they conform with Scania values. Again, the V8 is a case in point.

"When we developed the V8 merchandise products we wanted to emphasise the heritage and also what the V8 represents today: power and precision. The V8 is a brand that is a source of great pride to Scania and to those who drive it," says Rudenstam.

"We speak about a refined exterior representing the cab and powerful core representing the power from the V8 engine. Precision outside, power inside. These two features normally don't fit together, but in the V8 they do. You get the power you need for a certain moment to deliver the required precision.

“There has to be balance between those two. These values are what we want to communicate in the products we produce.”

The values find their way into the fine details of how the product designs are expressed, as Rudenstam explains.

“You will find it in the lines and shapes – how two defined curves meet each other in a balanced way, as well as the angles, the material we chose, the colours and the quality. The colour red is dedicated to the V8, a deep beautiful red that has been part of the V8 for a long time. Together with the black leather and fine brushed aluminum we want to emphasise the V8 more than ever. The values of the brand must come through in everything we do.

“When we design products inspired by our heritage collection, we want to reflect the techniques and qualities that were typical for that period. In this collection we celebrate the aesthetics of the truck from 1969, when the V8's journey began.” ●

Time to celebrate THE GREAT V8

Scania is launching three new exclusive watches to mark the 50th anniversary of the V8 engine. And the Scania R&D department's designers have gone one step further than before by developing the timepieces from scratch. It's time for them to tell their story. →

Text: Sandra Widh Photos: Dan Boman

Above: The new line of premium watches pays tribute to the legendary V8 on its 50th anniversary, using elements from and designs inspired by the V8 truck and its engine.

“By developing the watches from the very start, we could decide completely what details and design elements from the V8 trucks we wanted to highlight to get the proper V8 look and feel, says Jesper Höglin, Product Manager Branding Products.

“We wanted to come one step closer in finding the connection with our vehicles. Our new way of working with this type of products creates a higher recognition to the real trucks.”

The new models have taken about one-and-a-half years to design and develop. The concept and idea phase was in close contact with the designers Antonio Cantos, Senior Graphic Designer and Fredrik Rudenstam, Team Leader Visual and Graphic Design at the R&D department. They sketched out and built models, applied details and produced a whole new design language.

The new line of watches is part of the special V8 50th anniversary collection and is a tribute to the legendary truck. As an example, the cases are designed with elements and angles taken from the V8 truck and its engine.

The first model is called “V8 Limited Edition” and is a chronographic high-end watch. It comes in only 500 pieces, all numbered on the back. It has black leather straps with the classic red seams from the V8 truck. The model also has a timing feature and buttons on the side inspired by the V8 piston head, as well as a pattern with holes connected to the V8 steering wheel. And the hands of the watch are the same as the speedometer needles.

It has taken one-and-a-half years for the new models to go from the drawing board to finished product. The results are three truly special timepieces that do the V8 proud.

The second model “V8 Black Edition” has a sportier design. It has the characteristic red colour from the V8 truck’s styling kit included on the strap, which is also inspired by the timing belt in the engine. The rough surface of the bezel is made to emphasize the tough heart of the truck.

On the third one, “V8 Metal Edition”, small v:s are added around the clock-face, that emulate the shape of the V8’s logo. Even this watch has hands that are the same as the V8’s speedometer needles, and straps inspired by the timing belt.

All the three watches have an extraordinary combination of sturdiness and precision. They have solar cell-driven clockworks, which has a strong connection to Scania’s sustainability focus.

When choosing supplier for this project, Scania wanted to make sure that delivery and quality remained high.

“We wanted to come one step closer in finding the connection with our vehicles.”

Jesper Höglin, Product Manager,
Branding Products

The V8 Metal Edition watch has small Vs around the clockface that emulate the shape of the V8's logo.

“We knew from already working with this Swiss watch producer that they were the best fit for us”, says Höglin. “They are renowned, highly skilled and had the capacity to take on the challenge. All the watches they produce for us has an extra-long warranty and live up to the high standards.”

“They have the craftsmanship in place, they deliver on time and understand our design needs. They also have the know-how to manufacture customised watches with materials that makes our models unique. They even accommodated our wish to include the solar cell-driven clockworks from Japan. These are to the same high quality, but since the solar cells are not manufactured in Switzerland, the watches will not have the “Swiss made” sign on the back”, Höglin says.

Even though watches may no longer be a necessity, they are certainly viable, important and beautiful accessories. The trends of today are moving from more cutting-edge technology watches to jewellery-style pieces. But it does not have to be a contradiction; whether it is a more advanced technology or a quartz watch, it is always fun with some extra design features and surprising details. ●

The watch hour and minute hands are styled after the V8 truck's speedometer.

Scania worked with a small Swiss watch producer to realise its designs. The craftsmanship and attention to detail of the watches is clear to see.

“We wanted to emphasise the heritage and what the V8 represents today: power and precision.”

Fredrik Rudenstam,
Team Leader, Visual and Graphic Design

3 steps towards a sustainable wardrobe

Reducing, reusing and recycling can help you save money, energy and natural resources. Following the three Rs is a good start to make your wardrobe and consumption less wasteful.

- 1. Reduce – Think again before buying something. Do you really need it? Will you use and cherish it for a long time? If you need a new outfit for a special occasion, try to rent or borrow something instead. Buy second-hand as a first choice. If buying a new product, look for responsibly produced items made from recycled or organic materials.
- 2. Reuse – Make sure to take good care of your clothes and accessories and they will last longer. Air them instead of washing. Polish your shoes to keep them vital. When something becomes worn or torn, mend it yourself or take it to the tailor or shoemaker. When you are done with something, give it to friends and family, sell it through second-hand stores or donate it to charity.
- 3. Recycle – If it has reached the end of its lifetime, make sure to dispose of it in a responsible way so that the material can be recycled and taken care of.

The United Nations 17 Sustainable Development Goals are a call for action by all countries to promote prosperity while protecting the planet. Goal 12 is about responsible consumption and production.

The natural fabric that just keeps on performing

Wool is a natural, high-performance fabric that can breathe, absorbing moisture from the body and releasing it into the air, just like modern high-tech materials.

The fibres are elastic and durable, which makes the clothing comfortable and long lasting. It helps you to stay warm in the winter and cool in the summer, is naturally rain repellent, odour-resistant and cleans itself. Scania's exclusive wool products include pullovers, hats and blankets, and come from sheep farms where the animals' welfare is paramount.

And remember: a wool garment should be aired frequently and seldom washed. Cared for in the right way, it will be with you for many years.

The lambskin is an additional product from ecological sheep farms in New Zealand. Farms that put pride in good conditions for the animals and fulfil our animal welfare requirements. The leather is tanned with an alternative method that is more environmentally friendly. The end result is a soft, smooth and resistant leather. So, which jacket will be your favourite?

A NATURAL STEP

Scania cotton merchandise such as t-shirts, hoodies, caps, towels and bed sheets have been popular sellers for many years. Besides selecting premium quality cotton that is comfortable and still looks good for wash after wash, it's a natural step for us to use certified organic cotton for close to all our range. Certified organic cotton has been cultivated and harvested responsibly, without using chemical pesticides or fertilisers. Our cotton farmers use local and renewable resources, conserve natural resources, preserve the long-term fertility of the soil, and create the largest possible recirculation of nutrients.

What else was happening in 1969?

1969 was not just a milestone year for Scania and the V8. We had a moon landing; a comeback for Elvis; peace protests against the Vietnam War; new leaders for the us, France, Sweden and Germany; Woodstock; a Beatle marriage; and the first ever airing of iconic cartoon Scooby-Doo. What a year!

Here's a random selection of historical happenings:

JANUARY 20: Richard Nixon is sworn in as the 37th President of the United States of America.

JANUARY 26: Elvis Presley enters American Studios in Memphis to start recording his comeback albums 'From Elvis in Memphis' and 'Back in Memphis', including soon-to-be classic songs 'Suspicious Minds' and 'In the Ghetto'.

MARCH 20: John Lennon marries Yoko Ono in Gibraltar. They spend their honeymoon in bed, but in front of the world's media, holding a 'Bed-In' for peace.

APRIL 28: Charles de Gaulle steps down as President of France after losing a referendum.

JULY 3: Rolling Stones guitarist Brian Jones drowns in his swimming pool at home in England.

JULY 21: A live global TV audience of 500 million people (the largest-ever to that date), watches as us Apollo 11 astronaut Neil Armstrong becomes first man on the Moon.

AUGUST 15 – 18: The Woodstock music and arts festival is held at Max Yasgur's farm in upstate New York, attracting more than 400,000 to see music from the likes of The Grateful Dead, Janis Joplin, Sly and the Family Stone, Crosby Stills Nash and Young, and Jimi Hendrix.

SEPTEMBER 13: The first-ever episode of Scooby-Doo is aired on CBS TV in the US.

OCTOBER 14: Olof Palme replaces Tage Erlander as Prime Minister of Sweden.

DECEMBER 24: Phillips Petroleum announces it has made the first discovery of oil in the Norwegian Sector of the North Sea.

We chose truck drivers
Cecilia Granqvist and Danne
Lantz to model the Scania
Collection for 2019.

DRIVING IN STYLE

When it comes to showing off Scania's clothing and merchandise for 2019, who better to do the job than two actual truck drivers with long experience behind the wheel? Meet our driver-models Cecilia and Danne.

CECILIA GRANQVIST

Cecilia works for Scania transport laboratory in Södertälje Sweden. She transports goods between Scania production units with different trucks and reports her experiences back to Scania. She has worked for several different haulage companies and has driven a wide range of trucks from various brands, in Sweden and in other countries. "Scania has the best trucks. I especially appreciate the great driver comfort they offer."

She has two children and a boyfriend. She likes to cook and bake or just have a relaxing evening at home. "With two children, we always have a lot of activities going on."

DANNE LANTZ

Danne drives a Scania R500 and works for J. Lindebrink Entreprenad in Nyköping, Sweden. The company transports machines such as excavators, diggers, shovels and lifts. It also transports gravel.

He used to drive long haulage trucks. "It was rather cool driving a 25-metre truck, but I really enjoy the job I do today." His favourite truck is the 143 Streamliner, "but so far I haven't drive one."

Danne is married with three children. He is a football coach for his oldest son's team.

He has quite a few tattoos, many of which are linked to his family: the children, his wife's personal identity number and a rose with his grandmother's name.

MULESING-FREE WOOL

Scania has made the decision to only use certified mulesing-free wool, thereby guaranteeing that no animals are harmed during the shearing process. A natural choice for Scania, and totally in line with our responsible and sustainable approach.
